COL. MITCHELL ROASTS AIR 'BUNGLES'

YOU NEED not be a newspaperman all your life to understand the most important fact in newspaper work, and John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Merchants' Trust Company, proves it.

To his intense surprise, when Victor Lawson died Mr. Mitchell found the Chicago Daily News dropped into his lap with power to do with it as he pleased. This is what he did, according to accounts in the Chicago Daily News office:

He sent for three men upon whom Victor Lawson had relied. In his lifetime, and said to them: "I know that a newspaper must rely for success on newspapermen, as banks rely on bankers. If you want my advice, and you ought not to need it, I will give it to you. But I want you to decide what ought to be done, and do it; all I ask of you is to prove to me that Victor Lawson showed good judgment when he made you his chief assistants, and to agree among yourselves."

THE NEW YORK WORLD dwelt in the hands of Jay Gould. The Herald, Sun, Press, Mail, in New York, and half a dozen other newspapers out of New York faded away like sickly infants in the hands of Frank Munsey, able business man and financier, but with a forty-fifth and incapable of descending to the sordid details of newspaper work, in other words, not a newspaperman.

Gould, Munsey and other business men, with newspapers in their hands might have done much better, had they known what John J. Mitchell knows, that it takes a newspaperman to run a newspaper, as it takes a railroad man to run a railroad, and a good peanut roaster and tender to run a peanut stand.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, how are you impressed by the testimony of Major Ralph Royce before your air board?

It isn't necessary to ask. Every intelligent American knows your common sense and sound judgment.

But for the benefits of some newspapers and obsolete military and naval "higher ups" that oppose an independent air force to publish as widely as possible part of Major Royce's testimony in public service. Said he: "Last year I was inspected by eleven generals, and not one of them ever mentioned an airplane. They were interested only in the clothing of the enlisted men, in saluting, and the cleanliness of my kitchen and barracks."

MR. PRESIDENT, and readers generally, what would you think of eleven generals, responsible for the welfare of a great express train, if they continued themselves to inspecting the uniforms of Pullman conductors or porters, and the cleanliness of the dining car, and never asked a question about the locomotive?

THIS NATION needs an air force controlled by men that are interested in the difference between an all-metal airplane and a weak cloth made airplane, more than in neat uniforms, or service saluting.

Providences, taking care of the birds, put in charge of them the brains of rabbits or turkeys.

Why should this nation, depending for its safety in war upon flying machines and flying men, put the nation's flying department under the control of human rabbits from the Navy or turkeys from the Army?

NOT FAR from the train on which this is written in Arkansas City, Kan., there lives a dog, name unknown, and all the rest of his life that dog will believe in miracles.

His owner, probably dead by this time, was Watson Harry, man of quick temper. Believing his shotgun by the end of the

PINS SHENANDOAH LIFE LOSS ON 'ILLEGAL' ACT OF HIGH NAVAL CHIEFS

Washington, Sept. 30 (A.P.)—The "bungling" of three major aeronautical efforts—the disastrous flight of the Shenandoah, the interrupted flight of the PN-9, No. 1, to Hawaii, and the unsuccessful Arctic trip of the Navy-MacMillan airplanes—was charged against the navy today by Colonel William Mitchell, centre of the air force, in his testimony before the President's air court.

In sending the Shenandoah to the Middle West, Colonel Mitchell asserted the Navy not only violated the law leaving land operations to the army, but it dismantled the

HUNT PAYROLL THUGS NEAR NORTH ADAMS

Three men in a slow moving touring car, arguing over the location of the Mohawk Trail, turned toward North Adams today the police hunt for a bespectacled slayer and his pals.

One of the trio in the car, according to James Collins, a Hub detective, answered the description of the thing who shot and killed in cold blood Edward C. Rose, student driver for the Central Trust Company, and escaped with $10,246, the payroll of the Ward Building Company, Cambridge.

A grim hunt, with police carrying orders to shoot to kill, is being conducted on the murderer and his three pals. One has been identified by a vague gallery picture.

Collins declared he saw three men in a touring car proceeding through Clarkburg, outside North Adams, on the Mohawk Trail. The men were arguing, he said, over whether they were still on the trail and they were moving slowly as if in doubt as to their direction. The rear number plate of the car was missing.

Either lack of inside information played the chief role in the drama.

RIOT FOLLOWS TAXI STRIKE PEACE MEET

A pitched battle on the streets of the Back Bay was the early morning feature of the "Taxi War" now being waged between the striking drivers of the Coakley Company and the officials of the corporation.

The melee was staged on Queensberry street, the belligerents being the striking drivers, who made the place their rendezvous in some 25 automobiles, and ten or a dozen drivers whom the strikers term "stoopkeepers."

The streets of the Back Bay might have run red with gore had not the

ADMIRAL HONORS SUB HERO DEAD

7 INJURED IN HEAD-ON CRASH

Woonsocket, R. I., Sept. 29.—George Beane and Fred Schuyler of North Smithfield are in a hospital here with their names on the danger list. Five others injured in an automobile accident also are there. The accident occurred in Blackstone, Mass., about 1:25 a. m.

The three injured besides Beane, who, it is feared, has a broken back, and Schuyler, were Edward Connolly of Blackstone, John Curran of Hopkinton, George Anderson and Edward Connolly of Milford, Mass.

The last three were in an auto owned and operated by George Beane. The collision was a head-on, and the machines were badly damaged.

COAKLEY GETS PAPERS IN MAYORALTY RACE

Setting his cap and his spectacles a bit more firmly, Daniel H. Coakley hurried himself into the mayoralty fray today with the bumper crop of candidates that took out papers at City Hall.

The violent entrance of the legions into the fray swelled the ranks of the contestants to 125.

NAB WIG THUG'S PAL, MAINE PEN FUGITIVE

Thomaston, Me., Sept. 30 (A.P.)—The four convicts who escaped from State Prison last June, are again safely in custody.

Closely following the announcement that James E. Bennett had been shot, probably fatally, at Everett, Mass., Warden Lester D. Eaton today received a telegram stating that Edward Arnold, the fourth member of the quartet to be recaptured, was in custody in El Paso, Tex., charged with the theft of an automobile.

The information came from the bureau of investigation in Washington. Whether Arnold will be surrendered to the Maine authorities was not indicated. He was serving his second term here, having been committed from Cumberland County

SEARCH FOR BODIES OF SUB VICTIMS RESUMED AS SEA CALMS DOWN

Equipped with ultra-modern spray lights for use under water, divers this afternoon resumed salvaging operations on the sunken submarine S-51 in Block Island Sound.

Chafing from inaction as a result of having been driven off by a northeast gale this morning, the divers returned to their tasks with renewed zest at 1 o'clock.

The seas had abated sufficiently to permit them to descend, although still rolling far too high to allow the return to the scene of the big cranes Monarch and Century.

The lights, the latest device for underwater work, were donated to the Navy Department by the Westinghouse Electric Company.

With men to operate them they were shipped from New York by the electrical company, which will bear all expense incurred.

By that time it is expected the work of the divers will be made much easier, as it is understood they will send beams of light over the sunken S-51.

And life found extinct will I give up hope.

"Our hope for the men is almost negligible, of course, yet hope by no means has departed altogether. They have food aboard but they cannot get to it, and sooner or later they must starve. But that time is not yet."

PLAN DOUBLE FUNERAL

It was planned to send the divers down into the battery room and have them work toward the torpedo compartment, clearing away the wreckage piece by piece. At the same time they were to grope for what bodies might be in the forward end of the compartment.

"If the door between the two compartments was found open," said Captain Rice, "we planned to get the salvage air pumps to drive the water out of the forward end of the hull making it easier to lift. We would do the same thing if doors were found open in the after part of the ship."

Orders were issued to the New York Naval Hospital to have the body of William C. Teschemacher for several days, in the hope that is raised or planned to be kept.

Stricken Families of Wracked Undersea Boat Victims Tenderly Cared For

BY MAXINE MBRIDE

New London, Conn., Sept. 30.

In this city where the families of so many of the martyred crew of the S-51 the automobile of Lt. R. F. Jones of the Medical Corps is termed the "Mercy Car."

From the moment that the first awful news was heard it has been the duty of the lieutenant to follow the sad messages, becoming sadder and more hopeless as hours and days have passed, sent to the homes of the stricken families. It was the lieutenant who stoutly maintained to seething mothers, wives and children that all hope is not yet over, while more than once his medical knowledge saved the sorrowing one from collapse.

Many of these bereft have taken courage at the glorious example of Mrs. Rodney Dolson, wife of a victim of the lieutenant who was in command of the S-51. She has told every woman she knows is a relative of one of the sub's crew to have "faith an ounce to the pound."

INSPIRES COURAGE

Driving through New London with her two-year-old son, the young wife refused to allow herself to be saddened until the final report comes in.

"Red has been through so many perilous adventures," she said, "that it seems unbelievable that he will not come back to me this time. He aided in the rescue of a submarine at Panama some years ago, and he knows everything that should be done in such a crisis. Once before he was reported lost at sea, and it was ten days before I received word that he was alive and well."

"I can't accept the fact of his death, and I am not going to until the very end."

Mrs. Dolson was "Gilded" Review of Washington before her marriage. With her now is her mother, Mrs. Bertha Dolson. With the discovery of John L. O'Brien's body aboard the sub "death chambers," went Commander Jones, accompanied by Lieutenant Commander Franklin and Mrs. Dolson to the home of the little 10-year-old bride in Groton—where she sat patiently awaiting news—some news of her missing husband. On receipt of the things the grief-stricken young wife fainted, and is now under Dr. Jones' constant care.

"I have made a double trip each day to each home," said Commander Jones. "In some cases I make several calls during the day. Mr. Johnson, the Red Cross representative who arrived last Saturday from Washington to co-operate with us, stands ready to further our efforts."

GIVE EVERY AID

"Nothing has been spared on the part of the Navy Department," stated the commander, "to alleviate the pain as far as humanly possible, the service and suffering that the stricken families of these unfortunate families." The Navy Mutual Aid Fund and the Submarine Relief Fund are at the disposal of the stricken relatives, and in also the Navy Department Act, passed in 1913, which allows $25 per month to the surviving wife of a man who dies in service, and $25 to a wife with a child, over and over, proportionately the number of children in the family.

Amongst the willing band of navy women, who are in the city, are Mrs. Myron W. Richardson, Mrs. R. F. Jones, Mrs. William Hurd, Mrs. Harold Holman, Mrs. John McKee, and Mrs. Jeffa, all wives of navy officers stationed at the submarine base.

MYRON W. RICHARDSON IS LAID AT REST

The funeral of Myron W. Richardson, headmaster of the Girls' English high school of Boston, takes place today from his home, No. 68 Otis street, Newtonville. Mr. Richardson died suddenly Monday after being stricken on a Boston & Albany train. He was sixty-three and a graduate of Harvard.

MAINE WOMAN IN DEATH DUEL

Mrs. Ada McCobb, wealthy Bath, Me., and New York woman, owner of extensive mining interests in Mexico, was beaten to death with a hammer in her apartment in San Antonio, Tex. Mrs. J. S. Sheridan is charged by the police with murder. When Mrs. Sheridan's mother, Mrs. W. M. Longworth, battered in a door and reached the woman, Mrs. McCobb's dead fingers clutched the throat of Mrs. Sheridan, who still held the hammer. Gems valued at thousands of dollars, always worn by Mrs. McCobb, are missing. Mrs. McCobb is shown above at the left.

EAST WIND DUE TO TOMORROW

While Winter laid a white band across the plains of northern Manitoba today, Boston and New England enjoys moderately cool autumn weather.

Thursday will probably be hereabouts, with fresh easterly winds.

The city will be swept by brisk ocean breeze that will make fine comfortable, but frosts are not anticipated.

Winter took his first grip on the Canadian mid-Western provinces with low temperatures, snow, sleet and rain.

Wintry conditions were typical of those in other sections of the province, with the temperature hovering around zero.

Wintry conditions were fairly general in Saskatchewan, Saskatoon and Regina reported snow general in those districts.

Thrashing operations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan were generally suspended.

BOWLES, COOLIDGE MAN, WINS 2D CONGRESS SEAT

Springfield, Sept. 30.—While Tenny L. Bowles, millionaire lumberman, proprietor, given to Congress as representative of the Second Congressional District, Republican leaders are not entirely satisfied with their victory at the polls, although their man won by 3435 over Representative William M. Furgate, State superintendent of the Anti-Slavery League, who was going to resign at the time of the election.

ARRESTED IN WALTHAM AFTER SHOTS FIRED

Patrolman Joseph Cunningham of the Waltham Police fired two shots at half Ralph Matra of Waltham, when, it is alleged the latter was armed in the attempt to steal parts from the automobile of William T. Chase on Prospect street. Matra was overtaken and arrested after a chase by the policeman.

Only 52 of 400 Accepted For Yale Medics

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 30. (A.P.)—From more than four hundred applicants for admission to freshman class in the Yale Medical School fifty-two have been selected. It was stated by Dean Milton C. Winterstein today.

Admission of applicants was on the basis of their college records, personalities and their grades in a special psychology test devised by the faculty of the medical school with the co-operation of the department of psychology. No student was accepted whose financial condition was such that he would have to do outside work which would interfere with his studies.

EX-COP SAVED BY ALIBI IN BRIBE CASE

Old Man Alibi saved Vincent Russo today when he was tried in Dedham district court charged with money from Mrs. Leustat, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. John Roussau, who conduct the King Philip Inn in Modford, were the complainants. They said that on August 13 Russo took $50 from them as a tip for telling them he was going to raid in a day or two for liquor. On August 27 he returned and tried to get more money from Mrs. Leustat, she said.

Two Wakefield policemen said they were with Russo at the time of the alleged August 13 extortion, and half a dozen others said they were with him on August 27.

After it was brought out that Russo had Roussau in court a year ago for an alleged infraction of the liquor laws, Judge Sanborn dismissed the complaints.

FATHER-IN-LAW OF ASTOR WIDOW DIES IN N. Y.

New York, Sept. 30. (A.P.)—J. Henry Dick, president of the Citizens Water Supply Company of Brooklyn and a member of the Astor family, died today at his home at Long Island, due to a complication of diseases. He was 74 years old. A son, William K. Dick, 1915 married Madeline Foster Astor, widow of John Jacob Astor, who met his death in the sinking of the Titanic.

LOSES TOOTH IN ROW WITH ALDERMAN

Lacking a tooth on which he set great store and belling over with wrath, Joseph Bloomberg appeared in the office of the clerk of the Malden District Court today to demand a warrant for the arrest of Alderman Fred J. Chisholm of Everett.

Mr. Bloomberg is a prosperous real estate agent and former member of the Board of Public Works in Everett. He lives at No. 47 Highland street, in that city.

On Monday evening, he told the clerk, he was assaulted by the alderman, knocked down, cut and scratched, and had a tooth knocked out.

As Mr. Chisholm, anticipating such a move, had asked the clerk for a hearing before a warrant is issued, such a hearing was ordered for tomorrow.

The row followed reports of John Chisholm's application for permission to build a filling station at Main street and the boulevard, Everett, the clerk was told, and occurred in the corridors of the city hall after the meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

MISSION WORKERS IN ANNUAL MEETING

Mission workers from all parts of New England invaded Watertown today for the annual meeting of the New England Conference of the Young Men's Christian Association, in St. John's M. E. Church, Watertown.

The meeting, which will continue through Thursday, opened with an organ recital, a banquet and a picnic. America's Unfinished Alibi.

Luncheon at Country Club in Honor of Miss Mary Hall

Changes Made in Debutante List of Functions as Recorded on Junior League Books

There's a gay round of pre-nuptial festivities revolving about the brides-elect, today at the Country Club, Mrs. John Jay Hicks Kerr (just recently Miss Helen Olivia Clark), of Woodmont, Long Island, gave a luncheon today in honor of Miss Mary Hall, whose wedding day is Saturday. Yesterday Miss Margaret Williams was hostess for a luncheon in honor of the same charming bride-to-be at the Algonquin Club.

BOTH MISS KERR and Miss Williams are at the head of the ball-room ceremonial in Grace Episcopal Church, Medford. Other girls of the group to be in the precessional afterward—Miss Rachel Smith and Miss Priscilla Hall, both with the bride to the Vincent Club-Junior League galaxy.

SOME TWENTY PRETTY GIRLS debutantes and some debutantes, are to precede over the tea urns Saturday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. N. Penrose Hall, of Medford, present their third daughter, Miss Ellen Hall, to the Junior League. Miss Ellen Hall, the daughter of the James Lawrence, Miss Caroline and Miss Harriet Salomon, twin daughters in the Robert Salomon family, and Miss Katherine Perkins serve.

ALSO MISS HANNAH HALLOWELL, second daughter of the Penrose Hallows, Miss Elizabeth Vay C. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Lewis, daughter, Miss Evelyn Perkins is but this season, and Miss Joan Borden of Fall River, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Borden. Miss Borden looks forward to presentation this season.

OTHERS IN THE TWENTY are Miss Harriet Morse, Miss Esther Cunningham, Miss Rosemond Quinn, Miss Anna Hilditch, Miss Helen Swann and Miss Katherine Walton. The tea will be a brilliant affair, and serves to open up but festivities and set the ball rolling merrily.

THESE A CHANCE or two in the debutante list of functions, as recorded so faithfully and carefully by the Junior League. The dinner dance scheduled for Friday evening, at the Dedham Country Club, given by Mrs. George Richmond Perry, and Miss Joan Borden, Miss Borden looks forward to presentation this season.

IN TRUTH, plans for Miss Howell's presentation are yet to be written. She will probably be coming out affair some time in October, but whether Mrs. Penrose Hall, or Mrs. Hall, or the bride's mother, Mrs. Augustus H. Parker, plays hostess role is not yet decided. Miss Howell is a specially attractive member of the debutante set and is in for a glorious winter.

THE ROBERTA WILLIAMS, ROBERTA WILLIAMS, continues to agitate the Autumn marriage. Her sister, Miss Marion Williams, daughter of Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, caught the bride's bouquet, and she is expected to be a wedding guest. There was a very small company but it was a very successful one.

NUMERICALLY speaking, there were but four guests at the William Newport residence for the ceremony. They were the Princess Miguel de Braganza, Mrs. William Burden, Miss Katherine B. Lawrence and William Spencer. These four and no more.

MAINE W. C. T. U. LEADER SCORES "BOLSHEVISM" Auburn, Me., Sept. 30 (A.P.)—Law enforcement as well as retention of Maine as a unit under Federal law, Mrs. May was commended by Mrs. Athena O. Quincy today at the annual convention of the Maine Women's Christian Temperance Union. "The great body of right-thinking, law-abiding people who believe in God believe in the Constitution," she declared. "Let us speak out against the Bolshevistic spirit of him who defames our flag by speaking lightly of our laws, and speak up in favor of the greatest home-protecting, health-giving, joy-producing legislation ever enacted by a great nation."

THE ENGAGEMENT was announced. And this time, not one hundred years ago, when man was the sturdy oak and woman the clinging vine, but here, today, now, in the U. S. A. Eleanor Maherin wrote "Clickety" and Eleanor Maherin wrote "Ann and Ed" and "Mrs. Maherin" and "the moment which all New England has enjoyed, but Eleanor Maherin never has written a story as full of the spirit of young love as "Sandy," the first installment of which will be printed in the Monday's Boston Daily Advertiser.

CAPT. DISMISSES BECOMES REAR-ADMIRAL TOMORROW Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 30 (A.P.)—Captain Douglas R. Dismukes, commanding the Portsmouth Navy Yard, tomorrow becomes a rear admiral. He was promoted by act of Congress for "meritorious service" during the World War. His name will be placed on the retired list, but he will remain in active service a month pending arrival of his successor, Rear Admiral MacBroom. Captain Dismukes, at fifty-six, is the oldest of the Navy's rear admirals. He was an officer in Mexican waters. In charge of the transport Mount Vernon, he was credited with saving the ship when she was torpedoed.

FAMILY PLOT POISON LETTER TO THWART LOVE BASIS OF SUIT FOR $250,000

New York, Sept. 30. A. P.—Indicted for sending a poison letter through the mails to Arthur H. Marks, millionaire tire and organ manufacturer, Mrs. Louis Locke Dornblaser, singer, is being sued for $250,000 for defamation of character by Mrs. Marks, formerly Mrs. Margaret Hoover of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Dornblaser has been married three times. Marks was her third husband. The second was a wealthy New York City banker, a well-known figure in the city. Her present husband has been described as a bond broker and her private secretary, from who she was estranged. He is a good looking youth.

Her first husband was A. W. "Prince" Talbot, race track gambler, whom she killed at Reno in 1909. She was acquitted because of the deathbed statement that the shooting was accidental.

FEDERAL AGENTS revealed that the singer's sister, Mrs. Francis Adams, wife of a Joplin, Mo., merchant, had been arrested and released on bail there as the actual sender of the note.

Marks sued $100,000 on the moral damage last fall, $100,000 of which was put in trust on condition that she would not annoy him for five years. She was acquitted because of the deathbed statement that the shooting was accidental.

FUND CANCELLED. The good behavior fund was out in half as a result of the publicity charge, Marks' lawyers say, and has now been cancelled entirely. Counsel for Mrs. Dornblaser said the poison pen charges were an attempt by Marks to get out of fulfilling the trust fund agreement.

SAKLATVALA CASE MAY SPOIL PEACE MEETING New York, Sept. 30 (A.P.)—The State Department's exclusion of Shapurji Saklatvala, Communist member of the British Parliament, from the United States threatens to mar the peace conference at Washington, beginning tomorrow. The State Department hopes the question will not be raised, since delegates are inclined to ask Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois, general chairman of the conference, to stipulate the conditions under which invitations to the meeting were issued.

tributed by the state constabulary and inspectors of the department of public safety on the highways during "Fire Prevention Week," October 4 to 10.

The leaflets will point out how to prevent fire waste and tell who paid the fine loss amounting to $12,245,981 in 1924.

A plea to make "carefulness" a habit, is concluded by the following "don'ts": "Don't throw lighted matches, cigar and cigarette stubs into waste baskets, sidewalk gratings, grass, lawns or open rubbish."

"Don't smoke in a barn, grain elevator, garage, dry cleaning room or the place of the department."

"Don't store ashes in wooden boxes or barrels."

"Don't let children play with matches or build or play with bonfires."

"Don't permit the careless disposal of oily waste or paint cans."

"Don't practice fire prevention during Fire Prevention Week and forget it for the remainder of the year."

THRILLS OF OLD WEST IN THE 'IRON HORSE'

It Depicts Historical Incidents in Construction of Pioneer Western Railroads

If you enjoy thrills, marvelous effects and a production making back intimately the pioneers of the railroad, you will appreciate "The Iron Horse."

The story is of the old West, and the struggles of the railroad builders against Indians, elements and politics. At the same time it depicts the adventures of a young man, "Iron Horse," son of a merchant, who is sent to him by his father to a glorious fight. The rivalry of the two branches of the railroad, the Union Pacific, which starts from Omaha and proceeds to the west, and the Central Pacific, starting from California eastward, makes a keen and thrilling climax to a picture replete with adventure. That grand old spirit of the West, some times showing to his disadvantage, is skilfully handled in this production, and emphasizes the fact that the Transcontinental Railroad might have been but a vain dream but for the "Fighting Irish."

William Fox has evidently spared

no expense or care in preparing the episodes that go to make the film in its entirety. Everything is carefully staged, and there seems to be no attempt to overdo it, as is the fault in many of these "pioneer" pictures. J. Farrell MacDonald easily stands out as giving an excellent performance in depicting the character of a pioneer. Both George O'Brien and Madge Bellamy are very capable in their parts. Notable, too, is a very intelligent rendition of the role of Abraham Lincoln, portrayed by Charles Edward Hall. Historical characters are usually more or less misused in the film, but there need be no fault in assuming Bull as very loyal to his part. "The Iron Horse" is a picture for all the family to see, from the grand father, who delights in reminiscing, to the child who craves Indians and soldiers.

MAKE SPARKS FLY IN NEWEST COMEDY

Louis John Bortels and Helen Lowell. They form the central figures in George Kelly's sparkling view of home life, "The Show Off," at the New Park Theatre.

WILL LEAD TO GIVE 'AD' COURSE

William H. McLeod, advertising manager of William Filene's Sons Company will begin a series of lectures on Retail Advertising at Boston University, College of Business Administration, Friday night.

This course is part of the regular university program, but is openable to those in business who would like to take up the study of advertising, by registering at the university. The course covers a study of retail advertising as it is actually done in retail stores. Much attention is given to the actual writing and laying out of advertisements, and to the study of problems of business as they come up in the advertising department.

'PEST' STARS IN COMEDY

By NICHOLAS YOUNG. THE world is full of Aubrey Pipers. One, however, suffered in Mr. George Kelly's "The Show Off" at the New Park last night, and out of his strutting ego blossomed the funniest and most telling of the year's comedies.

Measured by any standard, "The Show Off" ran true to middle class life than any play of the generation. The author made no bold as to label it a "script of life" and most of us will be persuaded to agree with him. Perpetrated by folk who are struggling to keep up appearances, who find the weekly income barely sufficient to meet the demands of the hour there was as much of tragedy as comedy in the story's unfolding.

For the most part these people were small and petty; they snarled and nagged at each other but managed to exist together in some kind of fashion. It was a seething household into which Aubrey Piper stalked to pay court to the younger daughter. She, alone, seemed his victim; to the others he was merely a blatant sham. There was much that was light and airy in "The Show Off," comedy that caught you at every turn. The tragic touches were incidental, and when old man Fisher collapsed at his work bench and passed on there were those who honestly believed he died of self defense. Aubrey had been a busy, damaging fly in his environment.

The Aubrey Piper that held the center of the stage in "The Show Off" was a profound and daring nuisance, yet entirely human and deliciously ludicrous. The best and the worst that may be said of Louis John Bortels, who played the role, is that he was suspiciously natural. Mr. Bortels never was out of the picture—an insufferable, pompous nobody. Sharing honors equally with Mr. Bortels and turning in a performance that would hold its own in any company was Helen Lowell, whose sharp tongue, keen wit and fine understanding made Mother Fisher a character to be remembered.

DANCER IS TENDERED PARTY ON BIRTHDAY

A birthday party in honor of Miss Dorothy Twomey, eighteen, popular Boston dancer, was given by employees of S. S. Pierce Co. at the home of the girl's father, William Twomey, No. 2347 W. Washington street, Roxbury. Miss Twomey has gained a host of friends by her exhibition dancing at hotels and charitable functions. She has also danced for S. S. Pierce benefit. She received many gifts.

"NO, NO, NANETTE" GIRL SUES HER RICH HUSBAND

Chicago, Sept. 30 (U.S.)—Mrs. Aline McGill Webber, who last January deserted the role of "Nanette" to become the bride of George Webber, Jr., today brought suit for divorce against her society and broker husband, charging cruelty.

RIFF 75'S RAIN SHELLS ON TETUAN

Spanish Capital in Morocco Under Heavy Fire; Casualties Are Slight

Tangier, Sept. 30 (A.P.)—Tetuan, capital of Spanish Morocco, was heavily shelled by the rebel Moroccan guns, using 75-millimeter guns, according to advices reaching here today. The bombardment was directed against the city from the hills to the southeast. The Spaniards admit casualties of seven killed or wounded. Some animals also were hit and building damaged. The Spanish artillery replied to the Rifian fire by shelling over the town from the hills to the north of Tetuan. Eventually the rebels' guns were silenced. It is not known what casualties were inflicted on the Rifians. The civil population of Tetuan is uneasy as a result of the bombardment. In consequence of the new Rifian threat all Spanish troops are being sent to Tetuan.

CIVIC OPERA CO. PRESENTS RIGOLETTO

Good Performance of Verdi's Popular Work Presented at Boston Opera House

The Boston Civic Opera Company put on for its second performance Verdi's "Rigoletto." The good performance of the previous evening served to bring out a larger audience. Although there were many commendable things in the presentation of "Rigoletto," the performance as a whole was not up to the standard of "Aida" of the opening night. The cast was not so notably a collection of good voices. Of the leading three characters, Leo Piccoli, singing the ever-dramatic part of Rigoletto, was outstanding. He sang in splendid fashion all evening. Lucia Carroll sang the role of Maddalena. Her singing was much applauded and she repeated the whole of her second act solo. The character of the Duke was allotted to Davide Darlin, who sang excellently at times, and made a pleasing figure. The orchestra under Piero-Paci was excellent.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Don't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting. Then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes. No more foot callosities, without soreness or irritation.

Is your gasoline an all-weather gasoline?

A cool, rainy night; a hot, dry day. They make a difference in the character of your gasoline mixture. It is easily noticeable in your motor's performance when you use gasoline of limited efficiency range.

Yet, you wouldn't repeatedly adjust your carburetor to meet such variable atmospheric conditions.

Using a rangy gasoline is better. And that means Atlantic.

- Give 5 Point Motor Fuel
- 1 Easier Starting
 - 2 Quicker Pickup
 - 3 Greater Power
 - 4 Less Carbon
 - 5 Maximum Mileage

ATLANTIC Gasoline is refined to meet the variations in atmospheric conditions, motor temperatures, motor speeds and throttles. It is balanced gasoline. It isn't simply a fair-weather gasoline. Its wide, uniform chain of "boiling points" gives it all the qualities needed for readily mixing with dry or moist air, heavy or rarefied, cold or warm.

SHEPARD GIVES RADIO AWAY

Local fans are showing great interest in a "Radio Giveaway" contest which is now being held at the Shepard Radio Store on Winter place. Situated in a conspicuous location is a five-story "Rampway" Con- cord Radio set, the largest in the American Walnut cabinet. During the hours when broadcasting is on the air this set is kept turned on so that visitors to the department may not only see the set, but also be able to judge its tone qualities.

The idea of this contest is for each visitor to the store to fill out an special blank, giving his or her name and address and the price at which they believe the set will be sold. The person guessing nearest to the 25th price of the set is to win the set. According to John Shepard, 2nd there are no strings whatever on the contest. Visitors who wish to make a guess do not have to buy anything. The guesses are free of any money, however, being allowed to a person. No guesses received by mail will be recognized.

WGMU WILL BROADCAST MITCHELL FIELD AIR RACE

When the 300 high speed airplanes entered in the aerial race held at Mitchell Field on October 2 to 10 begin their flights, WGMU will broadcast the race. The station will take the air in the interest of the radio fan. Already the hangers of the famous Long Island flying field, named in honor of Major John Purmy Mitchell, are housing fifty German and fifty French machines. Great interest has been aroused by the especially designed flying machines entered by Anthony C. Fokker. At one of the recent tests of American built aircraft a speed of over three hundred miles per hour was developed. The radio fans will be supplied with material from the WGMU microphone. The two Grebe stations, WAHO and WIOU will broadcast the race. The station of the race will be Douglas Rigney.

SOME TESTED CONTRIBUTED RECIPES

"TODAY is really going to be 'Ex- change Day' because I am going to share with you a few more of the very excellent recipes that some of our talented club members have sent in.

First comes a very delicate and delicious salad that I have tried with great success. This is grape juice whip:

Recipe No. 1076

1 tablespoon granulated gelatin.
1 cup grape juice.
1 cup sugar.

The Wavemeter

One of the most handy things to have around is a wavemeter. There may be had in many varieties. The simplest kind consists of a coil and calibrated condenser. Others include an elaborate tube oscillator, which constitutes a miniature broadcasting station. With a wavemeter it is possible to instantly determine the wave- length of any station you happen to hear.

BROCKTON FAIR BIGGEST DOG SHOW OPENS

Brockton, Sept. 30.—The best and biggest dog show ever staged at the Brockton Fair was held today with 641 dogs of all breeds entered. Of this number 162 were bunched for today's activity, the shepherds and Boston Terriers being the largest classes.
Belgian sheepdogs, Delmaines, Great Danes, Samoyeds, St. Bernards and miscellaneous breeds were judged by W. J. Connor of Webster and Oscar J. Anderson of Boston.

MEAT REACH $9.00.
Today brought many more thousands to the fair grounds. And if the weather permits the total may soar to the 40,000 mark. More novelties and features of varied amusements make the fair this year outstanding in its originality and success. Sport lovers and agriculturists from all over the New England States have brought their hobbies and wares for display.
A fashion and style show showing what midday will sport during the coming Winter as the last word in women's apparel has attracted thousands of women.
Because the greatest attraction of the fair is the Midway which in its panoramic display of side shows, circus high lights, and hot dog stands in a miniature and veritable Coney Island. Added to this riot of fun and color are the Wild West shows.

BABY BULL BORN.
And as though all these activities are insufficient to make the Brockton Fair a glorious event, a fine Ayrshire baby bull was born in the cattle show buildings, thereby giving cause for much excitement and enjoyment.
In honor of Brockton the bull calf was named BABY BROCKTON. His proud owner is Maurice H. Benson of Lebanon, N. H., who has varied cattle on exhibition. Many sightseers are making a special trip to see the baby bull as part of the admiration of an intriguing thing.
Other features of the fair include the horse races, the horse show, the commercial horse show, the automobile show, the dairy show, the auto show, the village show, the poultry and pet stock show and the firemen's muster.

Responsible for the success of the fair are Fred G. Field, president, E. M. Thompson, Carlton R. Blades, Harry C. Briggs, Frank R. Packard, A. B. Hastings, Jr., J. Joseph Cahill, J. C. Cort, Fred Drew, Charles H. Pope, Edward H. Tindale, Horace A. Keith, James F. Powers, and George C. Chase.

PHONE REPORTS SHAKE PUBLIC CONFIDENCE

Incumbent students are compelled to seek facts relative to the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company in obscure places to get satisfactory information regarding the company's condition, according to Alfred Putnam Goodell, efficiency engineer.

In his recent article for Boston Evening American readers, below he says this is necessary because the annual reports of this company and its parent, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, are not satisfactory or specific on vital matters.

Mr. Goodell's article today deals further with his plan for stabilization of the New England Company so that the public may get something like an even break, instead of being forced to pay for the costly errors of judgment by the officials of both parent and subsidiary companies.

The article follows:
By ALFRED PUTNAM GODELL
We must forecast these errors now, and be prepared to meet all comers with a sound fundamental program which cannot be attacked. This for the protection of the company, the subscribers and the public in general.
I propose first, to analyze the telephone business from a purely mutual standpoint, trying not to be biased; then we will consider a remedy.

OBSCURE REPORTS.
The American Telephone & Telegraph Company, as well as the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company's annual reports are not specific on very vital points, and in order to get at the facts of the business, evidence of investments are forced to turn to certain more or less obscure channels of investigation regarding the company's operations in order to form an opinion as to the company's condition.

The deplorable showing in Boston tends to still further shake public confidence in the company's operations in New England. All this because the American Telephone & Telegraph Company does not take the initiative and come forward with a solution of its financial difficulties. We assume that this silence on its part is because of its inability to apply a specific "cure-all" and matters are allowed to drift along in the hands of its disorganized corps of experts who are fighting to bolster up and defend each branch of this top-heavy organization.

DEBT ENRIKES.
New England people are aware of the fact that, on the face of its report, the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company for 1924 shows a debt increase of $25,519,400 which the carrying charges will figure approximately $2,000,000 yearly. Yet the entire gross increase in the business for the year 1924 was only $3,356,870.76.
Interest and taxes were $206,000 more than the net operating income. The American Telephone & Telegraph Company averages to pay 74 1/2 per cent on its capital, and funded debt and receives on its loans only six per cent.
This is an example of operating a business at fearful cost.
The 200,000 shares of New England Telephone & Telegraph Company's stock, which company is fighting for its life! must seriously jeopardize the equity required to

'SHENANDOAH WITHOUT PARACHUTES LIKE SHIP WITHOUT LIFEBOATS'—MITCHELL

Commander John Rodgers, who was left ashore to insure the success of the PN-9 No. 1, Colonel Mitchell said the preparations apparently were made by "bungling amateurs."

LEAVE U. S. UNPROTECTED.

Commander Rodgers at the time Colonel Mitchell made his charge, was holding himself in readiness to appear before the committee. Plans built for the tropics were met with the MacMillan expedition, Colonel Mitchell said, and the PN-9 No. 1 started for Honolulu when it was known that more than one refueling would be necessary. Before concluding his six hours of testimony, which began yesterday, Colonel Mitchell reiterated the charge that junior army and navy officers were "muzzled" by superiors to prevent them from "telling the truth to investigating bodies," and asserted he had made criticism for which he faces court-martial and against individuals but a military system that had practically ignored aviation and left the nation helpless to defend itself in the air.

'SHIP WITHOUT LIFEBOATS.'

There was no direct reference to the charges made by Colonel Mitchell recently of conduct almost treasonable and criminal on the part of those charged with administering the air defense, his testimony on the Shenandoah flight, being devoted to the legal aspects of the case from a service standpoint.

Commander Rodgers is expected to be heard tomorrow.

By sending the Shenandoah to the Middle West, he insisted, the navy violated the law because in time of peace land activities belong to the army.

The big dirigible, he charged, was not equipped with parachutes. "This is the sailing ship to sea without lifeboats," he added.

Engineering data, he asserted, showed the PN-9 No. 1 could not possibly have reached Honolulu without refueling enroute and that the planes sent to the Arctic were designed and built for service in the tropics and along the Atlantic coast.

"We these planes," he added, were sent to the Arctic regions where officers in charge of planning the expedition expected them to give satisfactory service.

Colonel Mitchell declared an attempt to get absolute vessels from the navy for target practice brought a reply from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson that there were "no obsolete vessels."

READS WEEKS' EVIDENCE.

"It might be well to build pontoons and rafts for this purpose," he said in reply to a question, adding, "The point is, we can't be choked off this way when everybody else is going ahead."

Discussing the Lassiter aircraft report, Mitchell said the Secretary of the Navy repeatedly declined to accept any suggestion which would link the army and navy air services, even declining the proposal of the Secretary of War that appropriations for the two services be considered jointly.

He read the testimony given by Secretary Weeks before the House committee in which he said that for the navy to get more money for aviation than the army was unjust.

"The work of the army bombing planes," he said, "has amounted to nothing this summer. The bombing group has been used to lay targets, shooting moose and trying to recover after such procedure."

DEMANDS FAIR TEST.

Regarding the aircraft tests on the battleship Washington, Colonel Mitchell said testimony was given to the House Aircraft Committee that the ship's bombing by aircraft was ineffectual. This statement, he charged, was not in keeping with the fact, adding that these tests showed aircraft properly used could sink any surface vessel without and that the only thing necessary for tests to be conducted which would give aircraft a fair chance.

"There have yet," he said, "been no adequate tests to determine the effectiveness of aircraft in its clash with naval vessels."

Colonel Mitchell again brought up the charge made by him last winter that junior officers were "muzzled" to prevent them from telling the truth to congressional committees. He added that the War Department had a reporter in the committee room.

"Does this interfere with your testimony?" asked Representative Vinson of Georgia.

"It doesn't bother me," Mitchell replied, "but it tends to retard a flow of testimony by junior officers."

"You realize this is a public hearing," asked Dwight W. Morrow, board chairman.

"Yes," answered Mitchell, "I just injected this on the side."

FRANCE WANTS AIR RULE.

"Do you think," inquired Judge Arthur C. Denison of Grand Rapids, Mich., "this has any effect on testimony if the army general staff has a stenographer here?"

"It has the effect," continued Mitchell, "that you immediately get a better asking for all facts and data on your statements. Since General Patrick army air chief testified here last week he has received a letter asking him to furnish a complete estimate of aircraft expenditures and a budget on needs."

"I thought," he said, "having a stenographer here might be a desirable thing by the general staff to save buying a record of the hearing," Mr. Denison said.

"That may be, but it works the other way," replied Mitchell, "France is aspiring to control the air," he said, "in the same manner England controls the sea. Every nation is coming forward with better planes than ours."

The air services of England, France and Germany were all superior to that of the United States, he said, because "those countries realized the practical value of aircraft during the World War."

The greatest development, he said, has been in the forces of Great Britain.

SEES RUIN OF SERVICE.

France, he said, has 1,200 planes deployed in Alsace Lorraine where they can be placed in immediate service.

He declared that the United States should have three types of planes, defense ships and high and low altitude type, he said.

He said the army now has 1,000 army officers ready to be transferred to the air service, and if this took place "that will be the absolute end of the air service."

Transfers, he said, had been prevented only by the constant efforts of General Patrick.

"The Japanese are working tooth and nail," he continued, "to develop aircraft. They are good fliers and are building good equipment."

He testified all nations which had unified air services were satisfied with the system and that every country had a definite air program except the United States.

Colonel Mitchell said he differed with General Patrick, who said the United States had the best unified planes of all nations, but he added this was "but a matter of opinion."

Returning to the Shenandoah disaster, Mr. Vinson asked "what provisions of the law were violated in sending the dirigible westward?"

ON 'PROPAGANDA MISSION.'

"The section which restricts navy air activities to the sea," he replied, "When by sending it overland, a law was violated."

"No," I said sending it over the mountains. To send the ship over the coast or over land to join it is a different matter."

"Don't you think you are putting on a stretched interpretation on the law?"

"It is not. The Shenandoah was sent on a propaganda mission. The law was evaded, not exactly dis- (from non-flying officers. The inquiry obeyed. The orders for the trip were will bring this out."

WANTED: DEATH JOB; MUST BE INTERESTING

Texas Applies to Gov. "Ma" for "100 Per Cent. Killing Post" and She's Considering

Houston, Tex., Sept. 29 (A.P.)—Something in his life that "he cannot overcome," has caused a Houston man to seek death—and he wants it to be in a "hazardous undertaking," which will "save some man upon whose shoulders rests the responsibility of a family."

The man, with an apparently keen properly functioning mind, has prepared a letter to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson asking that he be assigned to a duty where the "possibility of death is 100 per cent."

The only reason given for wanting to meet death is the "something which cannot be overcome."

Whether the Governor will "call the bluff," if it be a bluff, and what this person will do if the Governor raises the ante and assigns him to a particularly hazardous undertaking remains to be seen.

The man is of German birth, 35 years old, and made a declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States in 1924. One of his grandfathers lived in Texas before and during the Civil War.

The man says he is unmarried, has a good job, and is not in pressing need of money. He speaks English, German, French and has some knowledge of Spanish.

FRENCH FLIER-ACE COMES TO U. S. TO STUDY AVIATION

Paris, Sept. 30 (A.P.)—Rene Fonck, France's greatest fighting flier in the World War, sailed for New York today on the Majestic. He said he would study American aviation at the invitation of the Washington government, and would also represent France at the meet to be held next month at Mitchell Field.

Barbs in Mitchell's Bristling Evidence

HERE is what Col. William Mitchell told the Coolidge air investigating jury today:

The sending of the Shenandoah to the Middle West was in direct violation of the law, and arrangements made for the PN-9 flight looked like the work of bungling amateurs.

The Shenandoah was sent on a propaganda mission. The law restricts naval aircraft to the sea. She was sent to the mountains.

Planes meant for the Tropics were sent to the Arctic with MacMillan, hence they failed.

France aspires to rule the air as Britain rules the waves. The United States is in worse shape in an aviation way than any nation, and Japan is making great strides.

Transfer of 1000 army officers to the air service will mean the absolute end of the air service.

All nations that have unified air services have found the plan successful. Junior officers are muzzled by the War Department when testifying before congressional committees.

WILLS SMILES AS DEMPSEY SIGNS DOTTED LINE

CHAMPION
GAMBLES
ON GATE

Kearns Is Missing as Titleholder Agrees to Fight in Sept. of Next Year

Niles, Mich., Sept. 29.—Harry Wills, leaning against the wall of Dr. Fred N. Boline's office in this Michigan hamlet watched Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, affix his signature to a contract calling for his appearance in the ring with the Black Panther at Michigan City, Ind., sometime during September of 1926 for a ten round no decision bout.

Wills realized his ambition after four years of persistent challenges and smiled broadly as he was handed the pen by Jack.

After the signing, Dempsey extended his hand to Wills.

"Well, so long, partner," he said.

"Goodbye and good-luck," Wills replied.

Dempsey himself confirmed Fitzsimmons' statement that he was to fight on a percentage.

For a time today it appeared that wrangling over selection of a referee would terminate the negotiations, the champion holding out for naming the official from six names suggested by Mullins and himself, but

Moe slipped over another winning bet yesterday. He told you that either one of the Zelig entry could win the third, and they ran a race. Heave dot. This afternoon is a hazing his dough after more with a sweet named baby which 'Johnnie Norton says is the creamiest butter on the coast. B. R. $2003.07.

Moe and Joe, They Get the Dough---Sometimes

Mullins demurred. The final agreement was that if Moe and Dempsey could not win a referee he would be named by Fitzsimmons. Justice Farabee and Andrew W. Wills, head of the syndicate of back

Plans are to stage the fight in the open air arena at Michigan City where 50,000 capacity would be increased.

Neither principal may engage in other bouts between now and the time of the fight, except for a date Wills has already made for next week with the Newark club.

Rickard Intimates Court Action

New York, Sept. 29 (A. P.)—Tex

Rickard expressed surprise and disappointment over the fact that Jack Dempsey is to fight Wills under the provisions of Fitzsimmons' plan, held in Michigan City, Ind.

Helen Wills Tells of Stars' Development

By HELEN WILLS

FAMOUS players and thrilling matches are the main topics of everyday conversation in the home of Helen Wills, the world's leading tennis player. She is a woman of many talents, a brilliant athlete, a successful businesswoman, and a devoted mother. Her story is one of hard work, dedication, and success. She has won many titles and has been a role model for many young women. Her development as a player and as a person is a testament to her strength and determination.

Larry Conley Is To Return to Ring

Larry Conley, old time boxer, for Howard Knickerbocker and fought before he was in the ring. But it is only for a few days. He has been with Al B. and Boston broker, and one of his sons is a worthy fighter. In the Greenough House, Jamaica Plain, on the 1st of October, he will fight a man named "Smash" Jones, for a title. Conley has been a professional boxer for many years and has won many fights. His return to the ring is a big event for his fans.

WILLIAMS MAY QUIT:
14 YEARS IN MAJORS

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—The Philadelphia Phillies are considering the possibility of releasing outfielder Charlie Williams, who has been with the team for 14 years. Williams is a veteran player and has been a key member of the team. However, the team's management is looking for ways to improve the team's performance, and Williams' contract is a significant part of the team's budget. The decision is still under consideration.

There's a little bit of MURAD in nearly every cigarette... But only a MURAD is ALL MURAD

For reasons of her own, Nature chose the rich, loamy soil of the Orient for growing the world's finest cigarette tobacco.

A leaf of Turkish tobacco compares to domestic as a violet petal to a cabbage leaf—in size, texture and aroma.

One is tiny, chiffon-sheer and exquisitely aromatic. The other is large, seamy and fibrous.

Nearly every cigarette, including domestic, contains some Turkish. And the charm in each blend is usually in keeping with its Turkish percentage.

A MURAD is ALL charm because a MURAD is all Turkish. Excellence is not a mere ingredient; it is the body and substance of the entire cigarette.

For you who prefer superlative quality all through your cigarette—as a whole rather than a fractional part—MURAD is the world's best cigarette buy.

CUTLER GIVES PIRATES LARGE IN THE OUTFIELD

CAREY IS ALSO SURE TO SHINE

Sensors Will Be Represented by Strong Outfield in the Coming World's Series

By NICK FLATTERY.

Outfielding as an art and science is being heavily studied by the managers of the National League, and the fact that the Boston Americans have a strong outfield in the coming World's Series is a fact that is being noted by the other teams. The great clutch hitter, who has been playing in the outfield since the beginning of the season, is a player who is being watched by the other teams. The great clutch hitter, who has been playing in the outfield since the beginning of the season, is a player who is being watched by the other teams.

He is a wonderful corner, the best arm in baseball, and is a smart ball player. He cuts down base runners and prevents extra bases. He is a player who is being watched by the other teams. He is a player who is being watched by the other teams.

He has been one of the real stars of the National League season, a bit of a fool, a remarkable base runner, consistently brilliant in every department of the game.

Comparing the outfield of the Boston Americans with the outfield of the other teams, it is found that the Boston Americans have a strong outfield. The great clutch hitter, who has been playing in the outfield since the beginning of the season, is a player who is being watched by the other teams.

Carey is central in a better outfield than McClellan of Washington, though the latter would not be in the outfield all the time. He was away and given a year ago, but recovered in time to prove the hit that won the series. The Carey party, a real veteran, has had his best year. He is as fast as any man in the game, and a great ground runner. He can get to base that McClellan would not reach. He is a flash on the base, and a fine hitter against all kinds of pitching.

Carey and Cutler, always ready to steal, worry pitchers to death. They have the boys nervous and tight and the hitters back and the pitchers off. Sam Rice is a great ball player for the Senators. He is one of the best players in the American League, courageous, and very fast. He would make up as a player after man than any other right fielder in the national circuit this year, according to the writer.

Rice played great ball last fall in the series and helped the Senators win. He is a player who is being watched by the other teams. He is a player who is being watched by the other teams.

In line with the Fall Sales of today I am offering Three Hundred Overcoats carried over from last season, at a price of $18.00. Sizes up to 50.

Katzenberg and other Trousers, including the $3.50 staple breeches, as low as $2.50.

Watch These Outfielders

Here are two halves of outfield performers who are bound to shine in the coming world's series. George (Glim), upper left, and Sam Rice, upper right, are Washington's hard-hitting veterans. Capt. Max Carey, upper center, and Hazen Carter, below, can provide thrills in all departments of the game.

George (Glim) is working over the outfield in the Boston Americans. He is a player who is being watched by the other teams. He is a player who is being watched by the other teams.

Shenandoah's Fate

A Very Simple Story

About the Shenandoah, facts are clear. Commander Lansdowne, who had flown across the ocean in a dirigible, and knew his business, warned his superiors, and told this writer last June, that it was risking the Shenandoah and the lives of men to send that ship through the mid-Western storm belt in warm weather.

He was overruled by men who knew nothing about flying, ignoramuses who wished to use Shenandoah to advertise the Republican party at State fairs.

The Shenandoah was wrecked, Lansdowne was killed.

On top of that President Coolidge will not allow Colonel Mitchell to be humiliated a second time for telling the truth a second time.

Help Scout Movements

Impossible to Overestimate Their Importance

It is probably impossible to overestimate the importance of the Boy Scout and the Girl Scout movements in this country today. In an efficient way they are supplying to our national life and character elements that are needed vitally.

They give to thousands of boys and girls impressive lessons in the twin virtues of personal efficiency and subordination to organized discipline. They give to thousands of boys and girls in our cities their only contact with and conquest over the elemental forces of outdoor nature.

Of course this builds up a vast, deep and broad reserve upon which national defence may draw in time of need. National defence is all too often neglected by those at Washington who should have it closely at heart.

But just as important as this, which might be called the emergency value of Boy Scout and Girl Scout work, is another value. This work adds tremendously to the beauty and the efficiency of our everyday city lives.

Boys and girls under conditions of modern mechanical comfort in our cities are, like all too many of the rest of us, too prone to rely exclusively on the pleasant warmth of indoors in winter or the fictitious cooling of an electric fan or an ice cream soda in summer. Some older boys and girls take refuge in golf. But they would not do so unless golf was a picturesque organized and organized GAME.

It is as a GAME, picturesquely organized and disciplined, that the Scout movements appeal to youngsters of both sexes. And as a result we have tanned and healthy children in the most civilized of tenements and apartment houses. We have children obedient, kind and courteous under conditions in which there is all too little opportunity for the teaching of these virtues, either in school or home.

And if the need ever comes we will have potential soldiers, nurses and ambulance drivers, used to take care of themselves physically when all the props of civilization are cut away from them.

More important still, we will have potential citizens trained to take care of themselves morally and spiritually as well when the known lines in which they live are shattered and the world cast upon the strange resources and disciplines of war.

The American Legion has decided to back both the Boy Scout and the Girl Scout movement. It could perform no finer patriotic service, for the uses of peace or the uses of war.

Living Up to Traditions

All Hail to Submarine Base Executive

Throughout the days and nights of anxiety following the submarine disaster in Block Island Sound, one man has proved himself a tower of strength to the bereaved families of the victims.

Day in, day out, snatching a few winks of sleep between telephone calls, Lieutenant-Commander H. A. Flanagan, executive officer of the submarine base at New London, has stood to his post, answering all queries with unflinching optimism.

He was the last to relinquish hope, and his courage, sympathy and tact won a warm place for him in the hearts of the sufferers.

Another modest officer was Lieutenant-Commander Scanlan of the same station, who made daily visits to the families of the victims to see that they wanted nothing.

These are of the type who have made the Navy famous, going quietly and unassuming about their duties, whether they are risking their own lives or ministering to others.

Some Light on Headlights

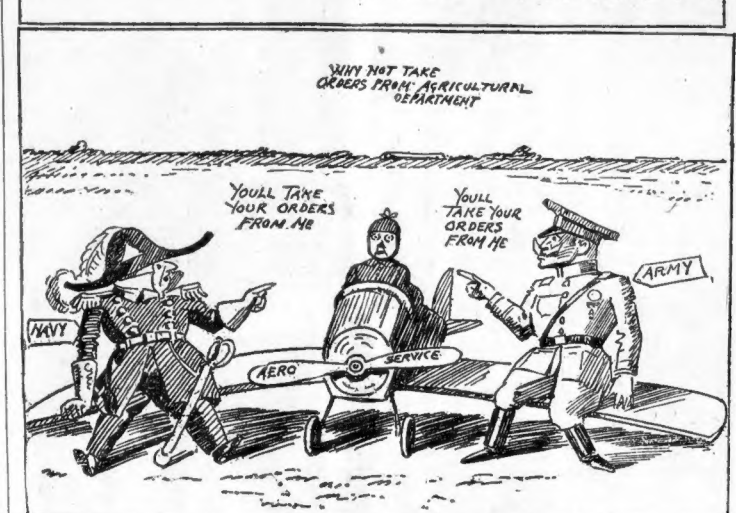

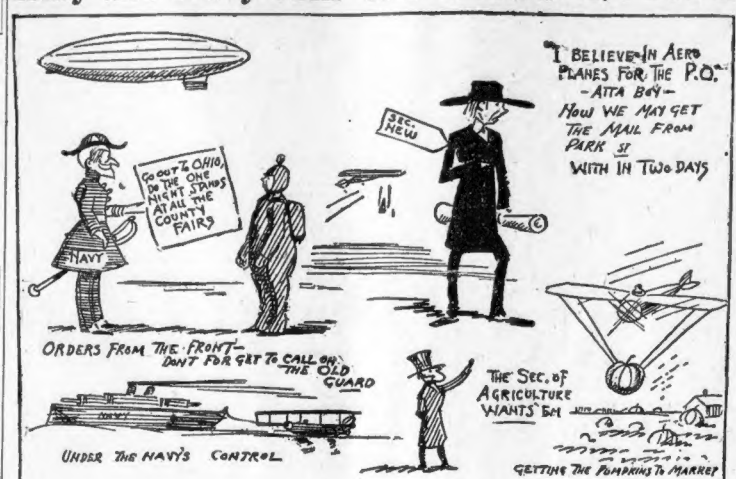

Dim Light Faults Are More Glaring

A movement is under way among the gentlemen of the Eastern States who oversee our motoring manners to focus the headlight menace up or down to a universal basis and to correct generally those conditions that have been—and still are—wrong.

One of the few things in the world that too much light can be thrown upon is the driver behind the wheel of an automobile at night, but it appears now, according to one official, that while we have been tormenting our tonials with cries of less glare, three times as many accidents have been caused by insufficient headlight illumination as by glaring lights.

Regulations and requirements as to lights and equipment, varying in different States, have brought about a confused and unsafe motoring public. Therefore, the hope is that out of Hartford, Ct., conference will come eventually a uniform set of "Musts" and "Must Not's," applicable in all the States drivers will welcome the "Night League,"

Army and Navy Mix 'Air' Orders By T. E. Powers

MEDBURY SAYS--

By John P. Medbury
THIS is the time of the year when thousands of employees are asking for a raise. It's also the time of the year when they're not getting it.

THESE bosses are too busy raising their own salaries.

ONE clerk went into the manager's office wearing hot water bags instead of shoes. He didn't want to get cold feet at the last minute.

WHEN he went to work that morning his wife told him not to come home without a raise, so after he came out of the manager's office, he telephoned her to pack his trunk.

YOU should never strike your superior for a raise while he has a grocer on. One man has been waiting seven years for his boss to get in a good humor.

HEW going to wait three years more and then ask him no matter how he feels.

ONE fellow awoke one of his boss' house the other morning and peeked in his bedroom window. He wanted to see if he got out of the right side of the bed.

NEVER be afraid to go in and talk to your boss. He's no better than you are; the only difference is he has more money.

OFFER him a cigar, but don't make a mistake and give him one of the kind that you smoke.

IF you don't know what kind of cigars he likes, it's better to give him the money.

ONE man gave his boss a stooge. Instead of getting a raise he lost his job.

HUNDREDS of business executives wear golf clothes to the office. A clerk went in to ask the general manager for a raise the other day and saw a fellow sitting there with knickerbockers on. He walked right over to him and said: "Tell your father I'd like to see him."

ON "REGISTERING EMOTION"

WHEN A MAN TAKES HIS GIRL OUT AND ANOTHER MAN APPROPRIATES HER, what is he to DO? He is SURE TO RING UP SOME EMOTION, but just WHICH ONE shall he REGISTER?

Well, THAT, of course, DEPENDS ENTIRELY ON THE MAN: how much BRAINS he has and how much BREADTH. Though BOTH of these are LIKELY to become ROBBLE

IF he is DESPERATELY IN LOVE with the GIRL. In a TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE of this kind, SOME men register INDIGNATION, REPENTANCE, MORFICATION or REGRETTMENT. WEAK MEN sink away AND SLUR, strong ones TO FIGHT; only the WISE ONES know THAT THE ONE THING that WILL FRIGHTEEN the woman BACK TO THEIR SIDE IS COMPLETE INDIFFERENCE.

THE FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters Must Not Contain More Than Two Hundred Words. No Anonymous Communications Will Be Considered

For Mrs. Quinn
To the Friend of the People:
Since reading in your paper about Mrs. Edna M. Quinn, Boston school teacher, required to pay back her yearly salary because she was married, while in the capacity of a regular teacher, I would like to ask this question:

Does she not get any salary for her services as teacher? These services were acceptable and they should be paid for. It is pretty hard upon a woman who has the best intentions of counseling her marriage while teaching, to have this action come upon her as a thunderbolt.

MRS. R. M. RAYMOND, East Boston.

Ask Dad, He Knows
To the Friend of the People:
Do you think that a father should buy a trousseau for his daughter about to be married?

This was a question put before me one evening, by a man who explained the situation in this way: He told me that his daughter had been working for some time and he would be glad to get views on this in your column. It has stirred up an interesting question.

R. P. CLOUD, East Milton.

Talking Pigeons!
To the Friend of the People:
Crowing pigeons with parrots is a new fad among breeding.

I heard the other day of an Army officer who during the war had command of the carrier pigeon squad, stating that this is not a foolish undertaking. Why not have pigeons among birds as well?

Lauds Our Portias
To the Friend of the People:
In answer to one of your correspondents who claims that women do not make good lawyers, allow me to say that more women are studying law today at the different law schools than ever before.

This is so in Boston. It is an cheering fact that the committee on a woman when she is on a par with men in education. In time, she will improve. This is a new generation coming on and you cannot tell them to old customs or traditions. We've got to give women an opportunity in every profession.

EXPERIENCE GIVES LIFE MOMENTUM

By DR. FRANK CRANE

BY going too fast we sometimes escape. The automobile in the movie thriller jumps the gap in the broken bridge by the momentum of its speed.

If it were traveling at a safe, reasonable rate it would crash through the gap.

In momentum there is power. A fragile straw is shattered if you throw it against a piece of wood. In the grip of a hurricane the momentum of its speed often stiffens and drives a straw into a solid board fence.

In every shaft-driven wheel there is the "dead point." It is the place at which the shaft, the point where it is attached to the wheel, and the center of the wheel, are all in line. If the wheel comes to a stop at this point it has to be turned beyond it before the engine can begin to turn it.

At the dead point no amount of power from the shaft can turn the wheel. In its revolution only momentum can carry it past.

On thin or cracking ice it is momentum that carries the skater over in safety. The greater the momentum the less the danger of breaking through.

In all fields of human activity also is seen the power of momentum.

In business it is constantly recognized. When a big newspaper publisher wants to start a paper in a new place he rarely begins an entirely new sheet. Rather he buys an old paper and makes it what he wants.

The name of an industrial concern is of value because the momentum gained by the past policy carries on in the minds of the people.

The beginning always requires an added effort. To start the ball rolling is the hard part.

In your work, doing the same thing over and over gives you a certain momentum that makes the task easier as you go on. One who has "grown old in the harness" is able to do the work with half the effort the beginner expends.

When you feel discouraged at your lack of proficiency or recognition at once, remember it takes time to gain momentum.

The one whose skill or reputation you envy nine times out of ten is being helped by the power of momentum gained from years of practice.

Momentum is a sort of "second wind" which comes to give added strength only to those who keep working.

HARNESSING OLD NEPTUNE IN MAINE

By Garrett P. Servis
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

IF the State of Maine cleans up the financial barrier and begins to harness the tide of the Bay of Fundy, and make them help to drive its machines and light its roads, no other feature will be set in the already crowded card of Yankee ingenuity and thrift. Many thoughtful persons must long have felt impatience over the continued escape of this manifest source of energy from utilization.

That we should have worried at much over the prospective exhaustion of the coal mines, when all the time we have been living on a whirling ball, a gigantic flywheel weighing as much as 100,000,000 tons and packed with exhaustless, and almost incalculable living energy, is not greatly to our credit.

That we should have worried at much over the prospective exhaustion of the coal mines, when all the time we have been living on a whirling ball, a gigantic flywheel weighing as much as 100,000,000 tons and packed with exhaustless, and almost incalculable living energy, is not greatly to our credit.

The bare possibility of using the energy of the tide adds, to a greater or lesser degree, along all sea coasts, and attempts at utilization have been made in many places. But specially favorable local circumstances are required to insure success on a large scale.

Like Niagara
The underlying principle is not unlike that at Niagara. The Niagara, known as lifted up through the agency of solar heat from the surface of the oceans and brought down from the clouds and from the waves of the precipice by gravitation. The tidal waters are lifted up by the attraction principally of the moon, and heated higher by frictional resistance, but their descent, like that of the waterfall, is due to gravitation, and their potential energy is measured by the vertical height to which they have been forced.

The engineers' problem is, in substance, simply to impose the tidal waters when they have reached their highest point, and to govern their escape and descent in such a manner that they will drive turbines and so generate electric currents to be turned into mechanical energy.

It would cost many millions; but dollars like this should be utilized.

Man Just Awakened
But the truth is that it was only yesterday that we began to find ourselves.

Now we begin to understand our heritage, which even the much-abused slave plainly enough forgot to do it not distinctly at first, that man was destined to subdue the earth. But was any effort made to subdue the earth as long as men continued to squander their mental and physical energy in a struggle for no reason except to belittle Platonism. Abstract thought is essential to the nourishment of the human spirit; but this is a hard-shelled plant on which our lot, as physicists, has been cast.

It is we must work out our destiny as long as we live. What the other world is in clearly shown by the Indian fakirs and similar professors and practitioners of mysticism. For them, however, the tide would be a sin against a jealous God.

Not to harness them, when the opportunity is as good as at hand, along the shores of the Bay of Fundy.

WHY MAKE HOME GLOOMY AT FALL CLEANING?

Full home-cleaning is at its height. If you are a man you are trying every possible way to stay away from home until it is done.

If you are a home-keeper you wonder if ever you can get friend butler to show some of the things to get the job done. As a man you are increased because a raid has been made on your belongings and you think it should be YOUR SAY about what you shall have in your own room.

But if you would stop to think you would know that "the lady of the house" has a right to get unmanageable during house-cleaning.

"The home is the woman's domain just as his place of business is the man's. However, it must be admitted that it is the man's hard work that supplies the home with necessities and he should certainly be considered.

After all it is not much of a home unless each one looks out for the welfare and the comfort of the other. At the end of the day both man and woman are tired; their nerves are on edge and their courage is at low ebb. If each one would keep quiet until the evening meal is over what a lot of useless trouble could be avoided!
